

Fellow Students....

Are you looking for a friendly, local, supportive conference at which to present your latest research? If so, the perfect opportunity exists!

Consider submitting an abstract to the Southern Gerontological Society Conference to be held in Asheville, North Carolina from April 6 – April 9, 2017

The Call for Abstracts for this conference will be open from September 1 through December 15, 2016.

Why students should present at the SGS annual meeting.	Why the SGS annual meeting is a good value for students.
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Presenting at our conference will make for a great addition to your resume or curriculum vitae. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The SGS Conference Hotel rate ($139 per night) is extremely reasonable and we can help students with room sharing partnerships.
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Presenting provides networking opportunities with gerontology faculty, practitioners, and students from other local institutions. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The SGS Conference Registration is also extremely reasonable for students who become members of SGS. Student volunteers are also welcome to work to help offset their registration fees.
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Presenting is a wonderful way of getting the word out about your research and to connect with others who share your own research interests. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The SGS conference program is developed with most meals included for conference attendees. Attendees can anticipate at least one full meal, if not two, during each day of the conference
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> There are limited scholarships for travel assistance available! Be sure to visit the SGS website and submit your application! Students must be SGS Members to be eligible for student scholarships! Be sure to also apply to have your work be considered for one of the many SGS Student Awards!
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> BECOME A MEMBER OF SGS! Student memberships are $30 per year and include a year's subscription to the Journal of Applied Gerontology, Enterprise Rental Car Discounts, the Southern Gerontologist Newsletter, access to the SGS Membership directory AND MORE.
